

Mission of Roosevelt|Energy

Roosevelt|Energy, a conference hosted by the Roosevelt Institution at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, seeks to connect members of the Institution nationwide with private and public sector leaders in energy policy. The forum is intended to provide these future policy leaders with the contacts and initial insight into the fundamentals of creating an energy policy for the United States of America.

Roosevelt|Energy Format

Roosevelt|Energy aims to provide Roosevelt Institution fellows from across the country with the fundamentals in understanding energy policy. The conference will include distinguished commentators from the academic, commercial, political and social realms in an effort to discern the 'perfect' policy proposal.

Panels throughout the conference will be compiled of one or two Roosevelt Fellows presenting a policy paper which will be made available to all attendees and panelists one month before the conference and four to six other distinguished commentators. We ask that all panelists be familiar with these proposals, so as to comment on the viability of the proposals.

Through these critiques, we hope to discover the options that do not work, subsequently taking us one step toward an energy policy that does.

Roosevelt|Energy Attendees & Audience

Roosevelt|Energy will be an event dedicated to educating Roosevelt Institution Fellows. While many of the more personal events of the conference itself will be exclusive to members of the Institution, the panel discussions will be held for general consumption in the capitol building in Madison, WI.

While we expect between 200-300 students from the Roosevelt Institution itself to attend, we also expect that this conference will be highly attended by other interested individuals. Additionally, the conference will be webcast, making it available to people around the world.

Roosevelt|Energy Exhibition

The first two days of the conference will also include an exhibition opportunity for Roosevelt|Energy sponsors. This exhibition will take place on the Community Terrace at the Monona Terrace in downtown Madison, WI.

The National Roosevelt Institution Initiative

The Roosevelt Institution is a collegiate think-tank with chapters at over 70 universities and colleges worldwide. Its mission is to create a network of the most dedicated and qualified students and groom them to become the next generation of global policy makers. The Roosevelt Institution effectively channels campus energy and excitement, ensuring that young people become actively involved in the creation of policy that affects their lives today and in the future.

Scholarship Initiative

Roosevelt|Energy's speakers and sponsors will help establish an undergraduate scholarship fund which will award $500 per semester (up to $2,000) to a 2nd semester freshman who displays leadership initiative in the field of alternative energy.

Conference Information

Conference Dates	October 18 th - 20 th , 2007
Last Date to Register & Request Funding	October 1 st , 2007
Conference Hotel	DoubleTree Madison
Conference Venue	Wisconsin State Capitol (Panels) Monona Terrace (Meals & Expo)

Contact Information

Richard Dovere Executive Director, University of Wisconsin Roosevelt Institution	Dovere@RooseveltEnergy.org (202) 903-0874
---	--

